Consent to examination

Purpose of the examination

It is a legal requirement for a seafarer (defined as any person who is engaged in any capacity aboard a ship) to hold a valid medical certificate attesting to their medical fitness to perform their duties, taking into account the particular risks associated with working at sea. The medical examination and assessment is conducted in accordance with statutory medical standards set by the Secretary of State and overseen by the Maritime & Coastguard Agency. Further details, if required, may be found in MSN 1839, and the Approved Doctor's Manual

Nature of the examination

The AD will review your medical history, and then examine you. The average duration of the assessment will be 30-45 minutes. The standard examination will at minimum include:

- Observation of posture, movement and gait
- Pulse, Blood pressure, height, weight, Body Mass Index, urine test
- Examination of skin and also leg veins
- Clinical test of ears, and hearing if necessary, Clinical test of eyes and eyesight
- Examination of teeth, gums, mouth and throat
- Examination of heart, lungs and neurological system
- Examination of abdomen including checking for hernias
- Other tests that might be clinically indicated from the history will be explained

It will be necessary for you to be partially undressed to conduct a full examination (down to bra and underpants for females, underpants for males). Privacy and dignity will be of paramount importance at all times and you will be offered a chaperone. Further information may be required from your GP or specialist prior to making a fitness decision.

I have read and understood all information above regarding my ENG medical examination. I have been given the opportunity to ask questions, and any questions I have asked have been satisfactorily answered. I agree to proceed with the examination.
